

Finbar O'Hanlon Video Interview

On April 30, 2021, Kevin of KJ Music Talk had the honor and privilege of talking with guitarist and creative musical force Finbar O'Hanlon. Finbar has gone out of his way to have his career be indescribable, as he is always pursuing a new path in the world of music. He will tell you himself that there is one basic reason that he is always deeply analyzing some facet of music---he is just curious. Finbar is on a mission to help people to appreciate music as more than just something that plays in the background. He is the founder and CEO of a multi-million dollar company called Linius Video Systems. His latest project is "The Code" an audio/visual experience that was produced using a Hi-Depth Audio Format, one that with Finbar's creativity and extensive research can revolutionize the way that music is recorded and listened to. He has released 10 episodes of his "Raiders of the Lost Art" series (The art is the art of active listening) on his YouTube Channel. There are several hidden codes inside each song on "The Code" many of which are explained in the various "Raiders of the Lost Art" episodes. Through all of his experiments and research, no 2 days are ever the same for Finbar, and that's just the way he likes it!!! ["The Code" is available for purchase in multiple formats at shop.jetpackartistventures.com/collections/finbar-ohanlon]
